Dear Srinivasgowda

An electric fan was fitted in the room occupied by the Military Branch in the second floor of the Public Office buildings on the understanding that it was required for use of the late Assistant Secretary in charge of the branch. Since it is learnt that this branch has been amalgamated with the General and Revenue Secretariat and the room has been vacated by the Military Branch, I hope, you will have no objection for the removal of the ceiling fan as it is required for use elsewhere. If required the clerks who may occupy this room can have ordinary punka similar to the one given to the Sanitary Division.

Yours sincerely
